Jason Carson's Carsonix Inc. Offers Personalized IT Solutions to Richmond Hill Businesses as Windows 10 End-of-Support Approaches.

Toronto, Canada - October 30, 2024 —

Carsonix Inc., led by local IT expert Jason Carson, is helping Richmond Hill businesses prepare for the upcoming end-of-support for Windows 10. As Microsoft plans to discontinue updates and security patches for Windows 10 in October 2025, Carsonix Inc. offers comprehensive technology upgrade services, ensuring clients remain secure and operational during this critical transition.

Expert IT Services to Future-Proof Businesses

Jason Carson, a lifelong Richmond Hill resident, founded Carsonix Inc. with the vision of offering personalized IT support. As CEO and lead technician, Carson oversees all operations, ensuring that clients receive hands-on, tailored services.

“With the end of support for Windows 10 approaching, many older computers will not be compatible with Windows 11, leaving systems vulnerable to security risks,” said Carson. “A proactive approach helps businesses stay ahead of technology changes, minimizing disruptions and ensuring seamless upgrades.”

Carsonix Inc. uses enterprise-grade tools for proactive monitoring, allowing them to detect and resolve issues before they escalate. Their on-site services eliminate the need for clients to dismantle equipment or risk data security at external repair shops, making the transition to Windows 11 smooth and secure.

Transparent and Flexible Service Options

Carsonix Inc. offers flexible service plans, including flat-rate fees and monthly subscription options, providing businesses with a cost-effective alternative to maintaining in-house IT staff. Clients know the final cost upfront, and support contracts can be canceled at any time.

“Whether it’s a small business or a large operation, the goal is to provide reliable, affordable IT services that adapt to the unique needs of each client,” said Carson.
